YOUTH REPUDIATES HIS CONFESSION TO MURDERS AT QUARRY

Solution Of Double Crime Vanishes With New Story

LIMA, O., Jan. 22.—Solution of the gruesome and baffling "quarry murder" here eight months ago apparently vanished into thin air again today with the repudiation of his alleged confession to committing the crime by Lloyd Ziegler, 19-year-old inmate of Mansfield Reformatory.

Breaking down when he was brought here to face two other men whom authorities said he named as accomplices in the crime, Ziegler denied the murders of Thelma Wood, 17, and Earl Truesdale, 21, saying he had only hoped his story would result in his being sent to another prison.

And thus, it seemed, Ziegler's repudiated confession merely added another chapter to the volume of stories being told by prisoners in hopes of securing prison transfers.

Only recently, two youthful inmates of the boys' industrial school at Lancaster revealed startling details of the cremation of a family of eight. When authorities investigated and found that facts substantiated their repudiations, they were returned to the industrial school.

"Jim" Newsome, a Negro prisoner at Ohio Penitentiary, also confessed to Warden Preston E. Thomas that he committed a murder at Mansfield, but later denied his guilt.

Despite Ziegler's denial of the double murder, authorities detained him in jail here while investigations were made. It was known that Ziegler was a friend of Miss Wood and consequently, County Prosecutor Elmer Bothkins attached considerable significance to the jealousy motive advanced for Truesdale's death.

Because he feared that Miss Wood would reveal the crime, Ziegler murdered her also, according to his repudiated confession which was first given to O. F. Gaynor, superintendent of the Mansfield Reformatory.

Although Ziegler says he knows nothing of the crime now, except what knowledge he obtained from newspapers and other sources, officials were determined to investigate any possible connection he might have with the case thoroughly.

Ziegler is serving a term at the reformatory for a gasoline station robbery.

MRS. LEVAN WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22—A woman's sense of duty to the depositors of a bank built up by her father today was beckoning Mrs. Wilma Sinclair Levan of Steubenville, Republican National committeewoman, from the field of possible candidates for congressmen-at-large.

Because she is needed at Steubenville to continue as chairman of the committee named to reorganize the Union Trust and Savings Bank following its closing by the state banking department, Mrs. Levan probably will not seek the nomination, she told International News Service.

"Call it family pride if you wish, but we have always felt determined that no depositor would ever lose a penny. Now, after working since October, digging up $300,000, it looks like we will be able to make good our debt to those who used the bank," Mrs. Levan said.

TWO BURNED IN GAS EXPLOSION

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 22.—A bomb was hurled today by Nationalist sympathizers at a district magistrate as he rode through the center of the city in his motor car.

The magistrate escaped unscathed but his automobile was struck by a fragment of the bursting missile.

Several weeks ago, another magistrate was assassinated by two young women, who, police allege, were members of the Nationalist party. The murderers, using a ruse to gain admittance to the magistrate's home, shot him as he sat in his study.

THE blast routed the tenants of thirty other apartments in the building.

Firemen chopped their way into the Henchert apartment to find the place in ruins and the two occupants suffering from severe burns.

HEADS BLIND SCHOOL

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—W. Raymond Niday, a native of Galion, O., today prepared to assume his new duties as principal of the Ohio State School for the Blind, succeeding W. E. Bartram, who was appointed executive secretary of the Ohio Commission for the Blind. C. A. Chatfield, son of Dr. Chatfield of McArthur, O., succeeded Niday as teacher in the high school.

SEES ARGUMENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—If television ever enables the country's people to see the death struggle of a human being strapped in the electric chair, enormous impetus would be given to the agitation against capital punishment, Charles Francis Potter declared today.

Potter, founder and leader of the humanist society of New York, witnessed the execution last night of Francis "Two Gun" Crowley, killer of a policeman, at Sing Sing.

EDUCATION SYSTEM IN STATE ATTACKED AT HEALTH MEETING

Professor Declares Universal Education Is Mockery

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—The present educational system in Ohio is guilty of a "crime on childhood," Dr. Charles Chott Berry, director of the Bureau of Special Education at Ohio State University, told nearly 1,000 welfare workers, educators and health officials here today at Governor George White's child health and protection conference.

Upbraiding the educational system particularly for its "crime" against mentally-handicapped boys and girls, for whom, he said, "universal education is a mockery," Dr. Berry pleaded for sympathy and understanding of such cases.

Too often, Dr. Berry said, teachers and principals "are pleased and relieved when the mentally handicapped drop out of school." The function of teachers, he declared, is not to decide whether a child should be taught or whether a child who is handicapped is worth teaching.

"Through the enactment and enforcement of compulsory school attendance laws, society has expressed its belief that all children are worth educating. The teacher's function is to educate him," Dr. Berry said.

Fixed standards of learning, "reference for traditional courses of study," and "the great emphasis placed on the acquiring of knowledge without reference to its effect on the pupil," also were attacked.

Churches and schools were criticized for compelling many children to look to the movies, the radio, the streets and the dance halls for recreation.

"Our churches," said Dr. Berry, "which might provide desirable social and recreational opportunities for youth are dark five or six nights of the week, and the school buildings, which might serve as centers for the development of the social, recreational and intellectual interests of the youth, are only open six hours a day five days a week."

Dr. Beverly O. Skinner, state director of education, and State Welfare Director John McSweeney presided at today's meeting.

Auditoriums were packed for yesterday's meetings when Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver of Cleveland; Dr. T. Wingate Todd, Professor of anatomy at Western University at Cleveland; Dr. A. Graeme Mitchell, professor of pediatrics at the University of Cincinnati, and other authorities presented their ideas on child health development.

OHIO ENDORSEMENT OF HOOVER ASSURES HIS RENOMINATION

Other States Expected To Follow Suit; Opposition Fails

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—Unrestrained power in the selection of delegates to the national convention rested in the hands of President Herbert Hoover today following the endorsement of his renomination and election here last night by the Ohio Republican state central committee. With only two votes being cast against his candidacy, it was interpreted as assurance that he would possess a solid Ohio delegation at the Chicago assemblage.

Fred W. Warner of Marion, former state chairman, openly supported by Gomer Jones of Gallipolis, committeeman of the eleventh district, failed in an attempt to defeat the proposal to invest authority for selecting delegates with the President. His motion to have delegates appointed by district and county organizations in order to insure "they would be representative of the people" was voted down.

With Warner's voice making an emphatic objection, the motion of Fred Weaver of Lancaster, investigating the selection powers in President Hoover's campaign manager, was carried. Warner then shouted, "Walter Brown cannot select the delegates in my district," which is the eighth.

According to Chairman Edward D. Schorr, Postmaster General Brown will confer with the state central committee during the next ten days on logical representatives. In offering the resolution for Mr. Hoover's renomination, former Congressman Henry T. Bannon of Portsmouth predicted the President's re-election after a campaign more educational than any since 1896.

Upholding the President's work, Bannon asserted "he has pursued the most wonderful course in the face of the most adverse circumstances."

Apportionment of delegates to the state convention was made on the basis of one for each 1,000 votes cast for former Governor Myers Y. Cooper at the last election. According to this, 323 delegates and alternates will attend the conference, the time and place of which will be selected by the central committee to be appointed at the primaries in May.

OHIO—Take 3 . . . . .

After lengthy discussions over the $40,000 deficit, Chairman Schorr was authorized to appoint a committee of influential Republicans to raise funds for this indebtedness.

When A. C. Baxter and W. C. Slater, both of Columbus, advocated the formation of a Lincoln Republican League, Schorr was directed to appoint a committee of three to consider the advisability of such an organization. Former Senator Calvin Coolidge, it was understood, has indicated his intentions to address such a gathering.

Fixed standards of learning, "reference for traditional courses of study," and "the great emphasis placed on the acquiring of knowledge without reference to its effect on the pupil," also were attacked.

Churches and schools were criticized for compelling many children to look to the movies, the radio, the streets and the dance halls for recreation.

UNHOLY STRUGGLE CARRIES ON

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—A sordid twist surrounded the preparations for two burials today.

Up in Sing Sing prison at Ossining, arrangements were made to bring the body of Francis "Two Gun" Crowley, youthful cop-killer executed last night, to New York for burial.

In the morgue here lay the body of Policeman John Walsh, veteran of twenty-seven years service, killed by gunmen as he tried to prevent a holdup in a speakeasy at about the time the fatal electric current snuffed out the life of Crowley.

Walsh was in the room when two men entered and ordered all present to "stick up your hands."

He moved to draw his revolver. The robbers were speedier. Three shots from their pistols ended Walsh's life.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 22.—One hundred Nationalists raided a police outpost near Ahmedabad today in a fresh outbreak against the government.

They took all the furniture from the office and burned it in a public demonstration.

Magistrates later banned processions and meetings throughout the entire area.

WHITE SCORED IN ATTACK BY SCHRÖR

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—It was the administration's move today following charges by Republican State Chairman Ed D. Schorr that Governor George White and Finance Director Howard Beale have made "deceiving, misleading, and erroneous" statements about economies of the Democratic regime.

In an attack which was sprung unexpectedly at a meeting of the G. O. P. state central and executive committee, Schorr not only accused the Democrats of "trickery" in boasting of economy, but also protested the so-called "hoarding" of $10,000 in highway funds.

NO FOND FAREWELL

RUTH JUDD PAINTED AS COOL MURDERESS IN TRIAL EVIDENCE

Death Scenes Told By State Witnesses In Testimony

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 22.—Ruth Judd, frail daughter of an Indiana preacher was painted today as a woman whose fury drove her to kill her best friends and mutilate their bodies later attempting to conceal the crime by shipping the remains in trunks to Los Angeles.

"Winsome Winnie" of the desert cocktail parties now pale and drawn, faced the second day's testimony in her trial for the trunk murder of red-haired Agnes Lerol, robust nurse of 30, one of her alleged victims.

As she went to court today before a jury of middle aged farmers and workingmen, Mrs. Judd had sat without flinching while ten state witnesses on the opening day pointed their accusing fingers at her. Once her nerve gave way and she delivered a shouted tongue-lashing to Dr. J. B. Catton, alienist of San Francisco who had entered the courtroom to observe her.

The witnesses told two striking stories about Mrs. Judd. They characterized her as a woman of tremendous coolness of nerve and great resourcefulness.

Mrs. Judd was described by Mrs. Nora D. Smith, nurse employed at the same hospital with the defendant and Mrs. Lerol, as using a sly ruse to gain time for disposing of the bodies.

Mrs. Smith testified Mrs. Judd telephoned the hospital, saying she was Mrs. Lerol and asking Dr. Percy Brown to be excused for the day.

Another ruse was when Mrs. Judd told a transfer man, Richard M. Swartz that the big packing trunk, now known to have contained both bodies, was filled with books. This explained why the trunk was so heavy.

Mrs. Judd calmly explained her wounded hand by telling her landlord, H. U. Grimm that she scorched her hand while ironing.

A happy scene was portrayed by Evelyn Nace, another nurse, in setting the stage for the tragedy. Miss Nace testified she had gone to the home of blonde girl Miss Heddy Samuelson, her other alleged victim, and Mrs. Lerol for dinner and to play bridge. The bridge party broke up about 9:45 on a Friday night last October, and the two unsuspecting hostesses remained at their apartment, soon to be transformed into a veritable shambles.

Meanwhile, according to the testimony of B. W. Jergemeyer, operator of a one-man street car on the Indian School run, Mrs. Judd was approaching the horror scene like a silent nemesis.

She rode on Jergemeyer's car to within three blocks of the Lerol-Samuelson duplex apartment. Two hours later she boarded the same car for the return trip after, when the state contends, was a battle in which she shot her erstwhile chum to death and left them lying in their disarranged bedroom.

The second striking account of Mrs. Judd's activities was given by the four Phoenix witnesses who related the movements of the trunks containing the bodies.

Swartz declared Mrs. Judd called him to the murder flat at dead of night and held lighted matches while he and two helpers loaded the heavy trunks on their truck.

Swartz warned Mrs. Judd the trunk was too heavy to check on a railway ticket and Mrs. Judd ordered him to take the trunk to a different locality, riding with him in the truck.

The state contends Mrs. Judd took the bodies to her home in a single truck, dissected Miss Samuelson's body and repacked the corpses.

BIRTHDAY—100 ROSES

OBERTON, O.—One hundred roses were sent by Oberlin College to Mrs. C. Katherine Boardman, the institution's oldest surviving alumna, on her 100th birthday here. Mrs. Boardman graduated with the class of 1858.

The relief bill would set aside $125,000,000 for contributions to the states between its passage and next July 1. Another $250,000,000 would be made available for like contributions during the fiscal year, ending July 1, 1933.

The contributions would be limited to two-thirds of the amount raised by each state for like purposes. The federal funds would be given to the state for distribution through local and existing welfare agencies. If any state failed to acquire its total federal allotment, the surplus would go to general relief funds.

The largest maximum contribution naturally will go to New York state, totalling $5,146,896 until next July 1 and $10,293,772 during the succeeding fiscal year.

Opposition to the bill rested solely on its principle of extending direct federal aid to the states in meeting the unemployed problem.

"PERFUME BANDIT" INSANE

He was sentenced to the Toledo Hospital for the Insane.

VICTIM OF TRIPLE
TRUCK-AUTO CRASH
DIES ON THURSDAY

Injured when struck by an auto while directing vehicular traffic at the scene of an auto-truck collision near his home at Beattytown, Springfield-Xenia Pike, Saturday night, William Sowers, 56, died of a fractured skull and internal injuries at City Hospital in Springfield at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

As a result of Sower's death, a manslaughter charge may be filed against Lewis Ward, 30, colored, Seama, driver of the auto which hit the man.

Ward, following the accident, was arrested by Sheriff C. W. Carmell, of Clark County, on a reckless driving charge. Arraigned in Municipal Court Tuesday, he pleaded not guilty and his trial is fixed for January 26.

Authorities who investigated the accident learned, they said, that Sowers was standing in the center of the highway directing southbound traffic at the scene of a previous accident in which a car driven by William G. Martin, Clifton Pike, crashed into the rear of a truck parked along the east side of the road. The truck was owned by Harry E. Mouser, Xenia, who had stopped to fix a tire.

Mr. Sowers had stationed himself north of the wreck. The auto driven by Ward, northbound, swerved to the west side of the highway, it was reported, to avoid striking the truck. In doing so, the machine struck Sowers, who had run to the side of the road to escape being trapped between the oncoming car and the truck. The victim was hurled across the pike under a Clark County car, which had arrived at the scene with Sheriff Carmell to investigate the previous mishap.

Mr. Sowers was employed as foreman of the bindery department of the Kelly-Springfield Printing Co., Springfield. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, three brothers and two sisters. Funeral arrangements are not complete.

SEND FOOD TO DESTITUTE MINERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—Gilbert T. Hodges, member of the executive board of the New York Sun and president of the Advertising Federation of America, foretells a nation-wide buying spree.

Addressing the Association of Commerce and the Advertising Council of Chicago, the New Yorker said:

"Consumers who have been postponing the purchase of necessities and luxuries, through fear rather than lack of means, are about at the end of their rope. Our clothes have become threadbare. Our automobiles are beginning to rattle. Our radios are out of date. Our furniture is getting shabby and our houses need paint."

"The 40,000,000 people still at work will soon be forced to replace the goods they have worn out. Dealers shelves hold but scanty supplies and factories will soon have to speed up to turn out the goods that are required."

Another important factor, Hodges said, was that the "drastic decline of wholesale prices seems to have ended."

There was a need, Hodges continued, for intelligent merchandising and intensive advertising.

This Is Thrift Week

A good time for Mr. Average Earner to think about his investments or savings for 1932.

Past experiences have decreed that from now on every investor should first be a tester.

Stocks on the New York Exchange during 1931 fell off in value up to 75 per cent.

Bonds depreciated in value up to 50 per cent.

Only a savings dollar continues to be worth one hundred cents...and the savings dollar should have the protection of carefully selected first mortgage liens on real estate...homes.

Thrift Week is a good time to swing investment money or savings into this institution.

"FILL'ER UP--WITH AIR!"

New-Fangled Automobile, Whose Only "Fuel" Is Compressed Air, Soon May Revolutionize Motor Industry

LOS ANGELES, Cal. Jan. 22—Roy J. Meyers, inventor, drove his car up to a filling station here the other day.

"Gas, master?" queried the attendant.

"No," replied Meyers, "just a little wind," and he proceeded to the rear where a sign "free air" could be seen.

Coupling the air hose onto a connection, he eyed a pressure gauge on the dash. In a few minutes he was satisfied, and climbed into the seat with the remark, "Well, she's good for another hundred miles now," and drove off, leaving the gas station man goggle-eyed.

"Free air" means free fuel for Meyers, for he has succeeded in harnessing compressed air as an entirely practical motive power by means of a newly developed motor which he has just disclosed for the first time in an amazing demonstration.

Six Years' Research

"The new motor is the result of six years of research and experimentation," said Meyers, as he drove it around Los Angeles. "This is the second complete motor I have built, my first experimental model having been made three years ago. This latest motor would greatly increase the pay loads of aircraft."

As he experiments, Meyers drives his present car around Los Angeles, picking up a little free air here and there, his transportation costing him not a cent except the wear and tear on his tires.

Supplies "Bulk" and Vitamin B for Constipation; Also Iron for Blood

For ten years, now, millions have found Kellogg's ALL-BRAN a safe, pleasant way to overcome common constipation—with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so often result from this condition.

Recent laboratory tests show that ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

In addition, ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron, by weight, as beef liver.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like the "bulk" in lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. It is not habit-forming.

Think how much better it is to enjoy this delicious cereal than to take endless pills and drugs, which often lead to harmful habits.

Two tablespoonsfuls daily—in serious cases with every meal—are usually sufficient. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or use in cooking.

How It Works

"The air expands in the cylinders, forcing the pistons up and down as the gas explosions do in the ordinary type motor," the inventor pointed out. "Similarly ceases there, for then the air is re-captured and recompressed by a compressor built into the motor itself. This cold recompressed air is returned to the pressure tanks where it is heated by the electricity from batteries and generator. The expansion from the heat greatly increases the air power as it goes back into use."

"I intend to carry my experiments further and perfect this motor for airplane use as well as for automobiles. Such a motor would be absolutely certain in operation and eliminate any possible fire hazard. By doing away with the fuel loads now necessary, the use of the air motor would greatly increase the pay loads of aircraft."

As he experiments, Meyers drives his present car around Los Angeles, picking up a little free air here and there, his transportation costing him not a cent except the wear and tear on his tires.

Tanks in the rear of the car are filled with compressed air to 500 pounds pressure. On opening the control valve the car moves off with smooth ease, and picks up speed quickly. The only sound on starting is a slight hum which ceases as the car gains way.

This experimental car, said Meyers, is direct geared, and is only good for a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, but with the addition of a gear shift in conjunction with a larger sized motor, normal maximum automobile speeds or greater can be made, he maintains. Greater power and speed is simply a matter of piston displacement in the gasoline motor, Meyers explained, in showing the general principles on which his creation works.

Travel Lecture Delights B. P. W. Club Members

MEMBERS of the Xenia Business and Professional Women's Club were taken on a delightful imaginary tour at their January meeting at the K. of P. Hall Thursday evening by Mrs. Reed Madden, guest speaker, who gave a talk on Europe illustrated with motion pictures.

Dr. and Mrs. Madden spent seven months abroad and the pictures included scenes taken as the He de France, their steamer, was leaving New York harbor and then included scenes of interest in England, Holland, Belgium, Italy, Germany and Austria. Mrs. Madden told many interesting personal experiences of the tour and her talk was greatly enjoyed by the club.

Dinner was served sixty club members at 6 o'clock by a group of women of the Ladies Aid Society of Trinity M. E. Church, assisted by Mrs. Jacob Kany. The tables were attractively decorated with green ivy and red tapers in crystal holders.

Hostesses for the January meeting were Miss Emma Ehrhart, chairman, the Misses Edith Fawcett, Edith Marshall, Katharine Shorey and Thelma Tindall.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Kinney, who died at her home in Yellow Springs early Thursday morning, will be held at the Littleton Funeral Home, Xenia Ave., Yellow Springs Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be made in Glen Forest Cemetery.

Mrs. Fred Snyder, 650 S. Detroit St., is confined to her home by illness.

DOCTORS APPEAL FROM BIG VERDICT

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 22.—Drs. Earl K. Shawecker and Fred A. Bowers today appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court from the judgment of the Tuscarawas County Appellate Court favoring A. T. Spinell.

Spinell filed suit in the Common Pleas Court of the county against Shawecker and Bowers for $35,450 as alleged damages. He accused the two physicians of "gross carelessness, negligence and unskillful conduct" when they operated upon Spinell's wife, Rose, at the Twin City Hospital February 20, 1930. Mrs. Spinell died a few hours after the operation.

The trial court, at the request of counsel for the defendants, directed a verdict in favor of Shawecker and Bowers. Spinell appealed to the Appellee Court which reversed the Common Pleas Court on the ground that it erred in directing the verdict.

This charming portrait study shows the second choice of the famous theatrical producer, Professor Max Reinhardt. She is Fraulein Helene Thimig, who, according to the German press, will soon marry the impresario. Professor Reinhardt was recently divorced from the actress Fraulein Elsa Helms. He was the first producer of the celebrated play, "The Miracle."

Man Who Twice Escaped Georgia Prison System Fights From In Hiding

(Editor's Note: Robert Elliott Burns, fugitive from Georgia's chain gangs, today was located by International News Service hiding near New York. In the following exclusive interview, Burns attacked Georgia's system of chain gangs and described his experiences as a prisoner under the Georgia system.)

NEXT, Jan. 22—"I'll smash the vicious Georgia prison system to bits if it's the last thing I do."

Robert Elliott Burns, World War veteran, Chicago magazine editor, fugitive from Georgia justice, emphasized this remark today by smashing a toll-hardened fist on the table.

There were whispers. Letters of his were read by a woman who hated him because of a real or a fancied wrong. Then one day Burns felt a tap on the shoulder.

"Georgia wants you," they said.

"I had gone straight," Burns said, "I was doing good work in the community. I had prospered.

They said that things could be fixed up. I laid $1,500 down on the back to Georgia voluntarily I would receive a hearing and be pardoned within ninety days. I went back.

In 1922 Burns found himself broke, shattered in mind and body by service overseas and unable to get a job. With two casual companions of the road he held up and robbed a store netting $5.80.

Caught, he was sentenced to six to ten years at hard labor.

That was in February and in June he escaped. Chicago and a new life now awaited him.

Robert Burns, short, powerful, dynamic, today told of those Chicago days when he was slowly winning an important place for himself.

"Georgia wants you," they said.

"I had gone straight," Burns said, "I was doing good work in the community. I had prospered.

They said that things could be fixed up. I laid $1,500 down on the back to Georgia voluntarily I would receive a hearing and be pardoned within ninety days. I went back.

There are 140 chain gangs in Georgia. They told me that I could have my pick of them. I gave them money and they said "pick your chain gang." I was willing. I thought they'd keep their promise to let me out. I picked Chatham

County, Savannah, where there is a descent, straight warden in charge.

Instead they sent me to Campbell

County considered among convicts to be a hard chain gang. But

Warden Paul Phillips was fair enough. He just did his duty.

Then after one month I was transferred to Troup County—the toughest spot in Georgia for a prisoner."

"During June 1930 five convicts were literally worked to death,"

Burns said as though talking to himself. "The heat streamed down on us from sunrise until sunset. It sapped our energy, drew the blood from our brains, made us mechanical robots who wielded pick and shovel until we dropped."

for Burns and he isn't sure if he will be able to navigate it safely. "I have no money," he said. "I can't get a job. They ask for references."

"Where did you work last?" they ask me. Will I say 'on the road' or 'shot gun' guarding me?"

"But I do know this."

"I am going to spend the rest of my life fighting against the most corrupt prison system in the world. If the people of Georgia knew that their penal system was just a political play thing ruled over by a commission of three men, all politicians, whose word is final, they would stamp out that system. If they knew that there are 50,000 convicts in 140 chain gangs in Georgia and each gang in charge of a warden who is a political appointee they would do something about it."

"Prisoners are slaves in Georgia; slaves to the political ambitions and obligations of the wardens and prison commissioners."

TRAVELING TEST STATIONS

WASHINGTON.—Two new "traveling laboratories" will be added to the equipment of the Commerce Department's Radio Division within a week or two, Director W. D. Terrel has announced.

The laboratories are scientific test cars equipped to test the field strength of signals from radio stations.

The work results indirectly in the improvement of radio program reception, it was said.

As the experiments, Meyers drives his present car around Los Angeles, picking up a little free air here and there, his transportation costing him not a cent except the wear and tear on his tires.

Six Years' Research

"The new motor is the result of six years of research and experimentation," said Meyers, as he drove it around Los Angeles. "This is the second complete motor I have built, my first experimental model having been made three years ago. This latest motor has taken a year to perfect."

Going over the six-cylinder engine, which resembles a radial airplane motor in general appearance,

Meyers pointed out that it requires no ignition system, no carburetor, no gas tank nor the multiplicity of moving parts necessary in the ordinary gasoline power plant.

There is but one control and that is the air lever, governing the supply of air to the cylinders.

Tanks in the rear of the car are filled with compressed air to 500 pounds pressure. On opening the control valve the car moves off with smooth ease, and picks up speed quickly. The only sound on starting is a slight hum which ceases as the car gains way.

This experimental car, said

Meyers, is direct geared, and is only good for a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, but with the addition of a gear shift in conjunction with a larger sized motor,

normal maximum automobile speeds or greater can be made, he said. Greater power and speed is simply a matter of piston displacement in the gasoline motor,

Meyers explained, in showing the general principles on which his creation works.

How It Works

"The air expands in the cylinders, forcing the pistons up and down as the gas explosions do in the ordinary type motor," the inventor pointed out. "Similiarity ceases there, for then the air is recaptured and recompressed by a

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked beareth rule, the people mourn.—Proverbs, xxix, 2.

LAVAL'S PLANS

The report of a few days ago that Premier Laval had been discussing with Ambassador Edge the possibility of persuading the American Government to consent to a six-month extension of the "Hoover Moratorium," which would make feasible a postponement of the Lausanne Reparations Conference until autumn, is now followed by an announcement that the French Government has issued a semi-official note envisioning a postponement of the Conference, and advancing these statements:

It seems to be agreed now in Paris and London to renew purely and simply for the German Reich, the Hoover Moratorium expiring July 1, 1932, and which would be prolonged under the same conditions for six months or a year.

At the same time, the European debtors of the United States, who also are creditors of Germany, would make a common declaration, asking the American Government to give them the same treatment as a condition of, and during the new moratorium accorded Germany.

If an accord can be established in these bases between the Young plan signatories by the intermediary of the chancelleries, the Lausanne Conference will become provisionally without object.

If the beneficiaries of the German Reparations agreement choose to grant the Reich an extension of the present moratorium, that is exclusively their business. It is not a matter with which the Government of the United States is concerned. Also there doubtless is room for academic discussion about the reasonableness and desirability of giving those from whom war debts are due the United States, a corresponding moratorium extension. But whether as a practical matter, it will be anything more than a waste of time to approach Washington on the point is another question.

The latest utterance by the state department indicates that it will not be. Moreover, in formally authorizing the year of moratorium arranged for by President Hoover with the consent of its members, the Congress of the United States said plainly that it would go that far and no farther. By a large vote the two Houses said they would not consent to any more postponement of debt payments, and some of the side remarks preceding the vote were emphatic and exceedingly definite. If the expressions in Congress are to be taken at anywhere near their face value, that body is through with concessions to debtors who already have been forgiven the greater part of what they owe, and who, with perhaps one exception, have only themselves to blame if they are unable to pay back what this country loaned in good faith, considering their honorable countries.

If Nations from whom money is due the United States want further moratoriums the chances are that they will have to get them by dismally defaulting.

It looks as though anybody can take a punch at a legation man and get away with it. However, we don't hear the other side of the story—maybe the punch was deserved.

Lieutenant Governor of the State of New York

(Herbert H. Lehman was born in New York City, March 28, 1878. He began working in the employ of J. Spencer Turner company, textile manufacturers, and gradually worked his way up until he became vice president and treasurer. In 1908 he became a partner in Lehman Brothers, banking concern. He is a director of several large corporations, and served as chairman on the financial committee of Democratic national committee in the campaign of 1928. He was elected lieutenant governor of New York in 1928, and again in 1930, serving as running mate to Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt. Lehman, commissioned as captain of the officers' reserve corps, in August, 1917, was promoted through various grades to colonel of the general staff, April, 1919. He served as assistant director of purchase, storage and traffic of the war department. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal in 1919.)

For many years past we have recognized in the state of New York that labor could not be exploited without serious damage both to our social and economic structure.

There is, in my opinion, nothing at this time of greater importance than sound, reasoned and intelligent handling of labor problems by industry, by labor and by government.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—Marginalia of a Madhattanite:

That little "Vanities" girl's remark keeps bobbing back to mind: "Earl's given me a break at last. Haven't you heard? He's promoting me from the back row to be one of the nudes in the first act final! I always knew I'd click if I kept at it!" . . . At a party the other night the napkins were a pale golden hue and each had embroidered on it in large script: BACARDI. . . . I can't figure out why the burlesque wheels hire those hefty and battle-scarred choruses when plenty of lovely young things are looking for back-row jobs just now. . . . From four hundred to two thousand job-seekers respond whenever a night club or new show sends out a call.

These times are bringing out unsuspected versatility in practitioners of the arts. . . . MacClelland Barclay, whose action-filled pretty-girl illustrations you've admired, has turned to sculpture and found it immensely profitable, transmuting his clean line to bronze ash trays. . . . And John Held, Jr., has taken up fiction, now that his flaming youth cartoons have not the novelty they held for collegiates ten years ago. . . . Russell Patterson is doing "straight" illustrations for the magazines, recalling the fact that he exhibited his oils brilliantly in Paris and Vienna fifteen years ago. . . . He still is a comparative youngster, too.

All parties are agog just now over the Hawaiian situation, and some strange stories are going the rounds. . . . My sympathy is with Bobby Bell, who is on his way now to Hawaii, as "the man of the family." . . . I remember some grand parties at "Twin Oaks," the family estate outside Washington, and I recall Mrs. Fortescue, a charming and imperious lady, whose present predicament is inconceivable. . . .

FIGHTER'S FUTURE

Several of the sport commentators have remarked the difficulty in "placing" Gene Tunney. A Dempsey or a Corbett is easy to predict; they must travel a lot, they must involve themselves in frequent public appearances reminiscent of the old days, and they fade gently and gracefully from the public eye.

Gene is another matter. He couldn't succeed as a college professor, because his words are far too long for students to understand. He won't go back into the ring, which he secretly hates, or into any sort of barnstorming. He needn't do either, now, and his tastes run differently.

Maybe—I could even hazard probably—politics hold Gene's destiny. He has already been invited to join the Democratic Victory Fund committee, besides being a member of the Governor of Connecticut's staff. He is Irish, you'll remember, and he has a charming smile coupled with a swift understanding of his opponent's psychology. In addition, it would be a brave voter who'd dare heckle him.

WHAT FEW NEW YORKERS KNOW

That in Colonial days the cheap hotels of the city had circular beds upon which guests slept sometimes 10 in a bed, heads out, feet to the center, like spokes of a wheel.

That the announcement I have been gabbing about, off and on for weeks will be broken before another one is off the calendar.

That Henry L. Doherty is director of more corporations than any other man alive, having a finger in 123.

The only answer is that he cannot afford to be accused of changing the rules of the game in his own interest.

Consequently, the change must be made AFTER the nomination, with a view to the NEXT convention; not BEFORE the selection of a standard bearer or while the fight over the selection of one is in progress. And after the nomination has been made, all hands are in a desperate hurry to leave, and the matter is not attended to.

In 1920, for example, the rules committee of the Jeffersonian convention which nominated James W. Cox unanimously adopted a resolution offered by Senator William H. King, of Utah, to substitute the straight majority principle at the 1924 convention, for the two-thirds' requirement.

But in the rush to get away immediately following the vice presidential choice, related Senator King, "it was forgotten completely, and not only never was acted on by the delegates generally, but even missed being reported out of the committee."

Had it not been for this oversight in 1920, the prolonged deadlock in New York four years later would have been averted and the Democratic party, whatever the result at the polls, probably would have escaped several years of ensuing disorganization.

If there is opposition on Capitol Hill at present to a change in the rule, I have been unable to find it among Democratic politicians there—but there is inertia.

In the past such objection as may have existed undoubtedly existed among southern Democrats, inasmuch as the two-thirds requirement permitted them to exercise a veto power over the preponderant number of northern delegates. Now, however, being convinced that Governor Roosevelt will enter the June convention with a majority of the votes (but possibly not a two-thirds' majority) and being also satisfied with him as a candidate, they seem not unwilling to acquiesce in a modification in the rule, which they consider ultimately inevitable anyway and which presumably would insure the New Yorker's nomination. Still, the Roosevelts hesitate to urge it, believing that the governor will succeed in mustering two-thirds by the second or third ballot at the latest and fearing to be accused of a recognition of weakness already.

Or course, if the anti-Roosevelts would make the suggestion, they would be apt to insist on a modification of the two-thirds rule.

WASHINGTON.—As usual, with another national convention right ahead of them, Democratic leaders are talking again of changing their party's quadrennial old mulish, the two-thirds rule. And, as usual, no one defends it—and, as usual, there seems to be mighty little real energy back of the evidently virtual unanimity of sentiment that it is a thoroughly mischievous rule and ought to have been changed long ago, and certainly ought to be changed this time.

But in the rush to get away immediately following the vice presidential choice, related Senator King, "it was forgotten completely, and not only never was acted on by the delegates generally, but even missed being reported out of the committee."

Had it not been for this oversight in 1920, the prolonged deadlock in New York four years later would have been averted and the Democratic party, whatever the result at the polls, probably would have escaped several years of ensuing disorganization.

After denouncing it for nearly 88 years, northern Democrats cannot now, with good grace, defend it. Nevertheless, they scarcely can be expected to take the initiative for its abolition at this juncture.

A candidate for 1932 having been named, maybe it can be amended—if the delegates will wait long enough to vote on the proposition.

Because of the economic depresion, which has brought about a vast unemployment, there has come an unusual intensity of competition, both for positions and for business. If we do not use unusual care and unusual common sense and vision, I fear that because of this competition we may see a breaking down in labor standards.

There can be no denying the fact that even today the standards of work are laborious and so devotedly built up are threatened and that in certain cases wages no longer bear any logical relation to the tasks performed.

Any unreasonable reduction of wages, or lowering of standards in factory, shop or store, or other exploitation of the dire necessities of a great and fine part of our population, will serve no purpose but further to weaken the economic structure and disorganize society.

Undoubtedly one of the chief reasons for the increase in the cost of government is the growing social consciousness of the people. If it is not to break down of its own weight, it must invariably be exerted along lines of the greatest possible social value. Social progress must be accompanied by material progress, but government must maintain a balanced budget and hold taxation to a minimum.

Just at present, in view of economic conditions, we must pause and take stock of our ability to pay for undertakings. It is clear that we must be selective in our choice, and assume new undertakings only where they are shown beyond any question of doubt to be essential to the public welfare.

ALL OF US BY MARSHALL MASLIN

Old "Heart Bowed Down" We Used to Sing That It Made Us Feel So Sad! We had a singing class in our school.

Every Friday afternoon at half past three we all crowded in a classroom and SANG SONGS. It was "compulsory." We wouldn't have been there if it hadn't been.

So we went—and we sang. The sun was bright outside. We had our swimming to do. We had to go home and lead the cow in from the pasture. We had our newspaper routes to take care of. But for half an hour we had to go into that room, with the girls, and sing songs.

We sang "Jingle Bells." And "The Bulldog on the Bank and the Bullfrog in the Pool." And "Drink to Me Only." And "Punicule, Fun-cule." And "My Country, Thy of These." And "Men of HAR-lech. In the HOL-low, DO you hear like rushing BIL-low, Wave on wave that surging FOL-low—BAT-tle's distant SOUND?"

And we didn't like it! We felt silly and self-conscious and ridiculous. Sitting inside singing songs! when we might be doing something else.

That's what I thought until the other night, when I turned on the radio and heard a mixed quartet singing "Heart Bowed Down" by Weight of Woe" and discovered with a shock that, for me, it had all its old pull, its drippy-soppy fascination—and was still my favorite consoling song. . . . Good Lord! don't we EVER grow up?

Down by Weight of Woe"—and it was a great comfort to us.

We sat there and sang "The HEART bowed down by WEIGHT of WOE—to WEEEEEK-est hope we CLI-N-N-NG," and the words rolled out of us like sticky-sweet molasses. On and on we went, singing "For MEM-ory is the ON-ly thing that GREEF—that GR-E-E-E-EE can call its OWN-N-N-N!"

That was my favorite. I never told anybody so, but it was. Doing my chores I'd sing it. Riding my bicycle along country roads with my hands off the bars, all by myself, I'd sing that sorrowful song.

It was such a consolation when I skinned my knees, when my heart was broken, whenever I wanted something and couldn't have it. It was my theme song, my incidental music.

And then I grew older, and I thought I grew wiser, and I never sang that song any more. . . . I comforted myself in other ways. I used other words, did other things when life wouldn't stay put. . . . For years I forgot that sweetly lugubrious song. It was a childhood song that I had put aside.

That's what I thought until the other night, when I turned on the radio and heard a mixed quartet singing "Heart Bowed Down" by Weight of Woe" and discovered with a shock that, for me, it had all its old pull, its drippy-soppy fascination—and was still my favorite consoling song. . . . ## Knowledge of Disease Small

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The hour for the cold is at hand.

"They are especially numerous," says one of our best text books on medicine, "in midwinter during January and February; and again in the spring, late in April."

"The common cold," so science names it. It is the most frequent of all human afflictions. It causes more economic loss than a depression. In any industry there is more disability from colds than from all other diseases put together.

A careful study in Hagerstown, Md., showed that of the principal causes of illness in a year, 418 sicknesses per thousand persons were due to colds.

Whereas it took influenza, la grippe, tonsillitis, headaches, digestive diseases, childbirths, accidents, measles and whooping cough, all together, to equal this figure.

What medical science actually knows for certain about this commonest of all human diseases can very easily be squeezed into the rest of my space for today.

The Common Cold

It is the commonest of all human afflictions, hardly anyone between the ages of 12 and 35 escaping without one attack in the early stages.

Many treatments directed toward making a patient comfortable are highly successful.

Science is rather cool on the subject of colds. We will turn our attention to some of these treatments which make the patient comfortable.

JAMESTOWN VICTOR OVER ANTIOCH FIVE IN GAME THURSDAY

Stitsworth Stars In New Position In 41-25 Triumph

Jamestown Merchants continued their winning ways Thursday night scoring a 41 to 25 victory over the Antioch Collegians at Jamestown High gymnasium. The Merchants led at the halftime, 14 to 11, but a flurry of baskets in the last half widened the margin and produced a decisive triumph.

The Jamestown quintet presented a revamped lineup due to the fact two regulars, Baker, forward and Glass, center, were nursing injuries and did not play.

Stitsworth, former Ross Twp. High player, whose familiar position is a guard station, was moved to a forward berth. The change of scenery must have been what he needed, because he went on a scoring spree and sank ten fielders for twenty points. Shirk, a guard, tallied eleven. Evilsizer, a guard, scored ten points for the ex-Antioch College players. Lineups:

Briefly, he advocates having thirty points constitute a regulation game. The first team scoring this number would be declared the winner. The services of a time-keeper would be dispensed with and when one team scored fifteen points an intermission of eight or ten minutes would automatically be declared, thus dividing the game into two halves, as at present.

Steele argues that this method would abolish stalling, do away with discrepancies in timing, eliminate lop-sided scores and would speed up the play. Offense would be stressed rather than defense and with both teams trying harder to score points, games would be more entertaining to watch.

It is conceivable that some total other than thirty points as constituting a legal game would be more acceptable.

Coach Steele overlooks the fact that, at least as far as scholastic basketball is concerned, the game has changed, or degenerated, if you prefer, into essentially a defensive game.

Few high school teams today score thirty points in a single game, providing the teams are about evenly matched. The scores generally wind up in the teens, and only infrequently do the point totals get over twenty.

Consequently, if the point total, as Coach Steele suggests, is to be thirty, a couple of teams might play for several hours before one quintet obtained the required number of points. It would be difficult to designate a uniform figure that would be generally satisfactory.

Still, the plan is not without a certain merit, and few people will deny that something or other should be done to make contests faster than at present.

Coach Steele tried to put his idea into execution in a preliminary game at Wilmington recently, but lack of time prevented the experiment from being carried to a successful conclusion. Inasmuch as experience is the best teacher, and all that, the only way to find out if the suggestion is workable, is to put it into practice a few times. Only through actual trials will the faults or advantages of the plan become apparent.

An Indian, representing the Ohio Hi-Y Dept. and doing Y. M. C. A. American Indian work, spoke on the old and new Indian traditions. Not only did he speak but he sang Indian melodies. His American name is Isaac Greyheart and his Indian name is Maahyoao-sitopa meaning "four corners of the sky" given him by his grandfather. He was accompanied by Mr. C. L. Rowe who is secretary of the Town and Country Department of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Greyheart spoke to the 1st and 2nd grade and Junior High at Central High School, at McKinley, Spring Hill and Lincoln Schools. He spoke to the Hi-Y Boys, Thursday evening.

The junior class has chosen its rings and pins. Five companies were represented and the contract was awarded to the Bratian Bros. either for a three year or a four year contract since the old contract ran out with the class of 1932. The rings and pins will be handled through the Tiffany Jewelry Store.

Exams came to a close Friday for the high school. Exams were given at 8:30 and 12:30 Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Many students received half holidays.

CEDARVILLE WILL PLAY TWO CONTESTS

Cedarville College cagers, to whom victory on the hardwoods has been more or less a "will o' the wisp" this season, will make an up-state invasion on this weekend, playing two games on successive nights against strong Northwest Ohio Conference quintets.

The Borstmen are scheduled to meet the unbeaten Defiance College "Yellow-Jackets" in a return game Friday night. On Saturday night Cedarville basketeers will encounter Findlay College.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—London at last will be allowed to grow up. For years the city has sprawled over a vast area but the height of its buildings has been under rigid supervision. Skyscrapers were taboo, and eight-story buildings the absolute limit.

nomination and re-election was regarded as formally launched today.

Action by the Ohio State Republican committee in endorsing the President and giving his managers a free hand in the selection of convention delegates is the first of a series of such moves in important states. Other states where the party organization is well controlled are expected to follow suit.

Unless there is an unexpected uprising in some quarters, Mr. Hoover will win renomination by default. Nowhere on the political horizon does there appear a possible champion to rally the anti-Hoover sentiment that unquestionably exists in some quarters.

One after another, Senator Johnson of California, Senator Borah of Idaho, Senator Norris of Nebraska, and a few others have been importuned to allow their names to be used, and to enter primaries against Mr. Hoover. But none of them has consented.

Senator Borah is no boaster, however much he may criticize the administration. Senator Norris turns away inquirers with the statement "I am too old." Senator Johnson, having twice sought the nomination, in 1920 and 1924, and realizing the ineffectiveness of it without organization and money, is not enthusiastic.

There remains then only one avowed opponent of Mr. Hoover's to date—Ex-Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland, who has conducted a nation-wide speaking tour, and who has actually entered the North Dakota primary. Few, however, take France's candidacy seriously.

Senator Johnson is still being pressed to enter the lists. He has been assured of the support of such insurgents as Senators Nye and Frazier in North Dakota, Senator Brookhart in Iowa, Senator LaFollette in Wisconsin. Others more regular have also secretly urged him to get into the race. But against a President strongly entrenched in the organization that automatically surrounds an incumbent, the veteran Californian is not impressed with the changes.

A few more developments like that, which occurred in Ohio yesterday and it will be too late for anyone to get away with nothing.

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown was credited today with having engineered the Ohio endorsement. He is regarded as the political spokesman of the cabinet, an a likely chairman of the Republican national committee to conduct the campaign.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Firmness in the railroad stocks and a mild dip and recovery in the industrials were the main features of a dull and quiet stock market this morning.

QUOTATIONS

New York stock market quotations received from W. E. Hutton and Co., Mutual Home Bldg., Dayton, at 2 p. m. daily.

In the old days when money really grew on trees it was an annual laugh to see how often even the alleged master minds hung like leeches to the lemons and let a Tris Speaker or Herb Pennock slip through their fingers to win pennants for someone else.

That isn't going to happen this year. At least, not to any great extent. The number of men, married will be smaller, but each man is slated for a thorough trial.

Another error which the magnates want to correct is the habit of farming out the choice young men and then not bringing them back until September when it is too late to cash in on their ability.

The lot of the major league owners who make mistakes is a doubly unhappy one in that his errors are immortalized in the record books. The fact that a certain future great once was with his team but was let go as worthless is there in indelible print for all the world to see and laugh.

For instance: The Pittsburgh Pirates had Joe Cronin on two occasions—1925, 1927—allowing him to play a few games and then let him go.

The Detroit Tigers possessed Babe Herman in 1922, but let him go without trial.

The Cleveland Indians had Pinkey Whitney on the bench in 1925 and 1926 and then dropped him.

Detroit couldn't make use of Bing Miller in 1919, the Yankees from 1919 to 1922 were unable to see Lefty O'Doul, Fresco Thompson was a laugh to Pittsburgh in 1925, the Phillies thought Lloyd Brown a joke back in 1923, and so on.

As far back as 1910 the Pirates thought Red Faber was a flash in the pan. That's 21 years ago and he's still going.

Well there'll be little of that this year.

Stalling, otherwise usually defined as a system of keeping possession of or "freezing" the ball by a team in order to protect a slender lead, would be a thing of the past, Coach Steele thinks, if the existing basketball rules were amended and his plan adopted.

The Wilmington mentor's suggestion is simple, and appears practical.

Briefly, he advocates having thirty points constitute a regulation game. The first team scoring this number would be declared the winner. ## Can You Afford To Deny The Church

Righteousness exalts a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people.

—Proverbs 14:34.

The Nation's Pulse

MANY things do not constitute a wrong in themselves until they displace something of greater value. Many things are morally legitimate, but if they keep us from Church they do us a moral injury.

The Church is the pulse of national righteousness. It means hospitals, education, cleaner politics, purer social life; it means law and order and respect for those ideals that make a nation great; it means the reformation of individual life; it is the voice of God in the midst of the people, calling them up and on.

There is danger of that voice being silenced with the clutter of our materialism. Let us think of all the Church has done, of all it means today, and then give its sacred influence first place in our hearts and minds.

To Parents

The difference between the gangster on the street corner and the useful citizen in the home is usually the difference between the influence of evil example and the inspiration of Christian teaching. Your leadership will determine the character of your child. Can not the Church and Sunday School help you in this great work?

To the Stranger Among Us

To make the nation greater by your attendance at Church may seem a rather remote possibility, but think what it would mean if every traveler did the same thing. Our Churches are human, helpful, inviting places—won't you worship with us tomorrow?

XENIA PASTOR WILL REPORT AT MEETING IN DAYTON MONDAY

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will give a statistical report showing membership gains and losses for churches of the Dayton Presbytery for the past eleven years when the Presbytery meets at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Dayton, Monday. The meeting will be in the form of a conference on national missions with special reference to evangelism, a devotional retreat and the Lord's Supper for the ministers and elders of the Presbytery.

The Rev. Mr. Tilford's report will be in connection with an address, "Concerning Those Suspended Members" by the Rev. William F. Klien, D. D., New York secretary of evangelism. Another speaker scheduled on the morning program, which opens at 10 o'clock, is the Rev. Herman C. Weber D. D., New York, general director of the "every member canvass". The Rev. Hugo L. Evans, pastor of Westminster Church, will preside at the morning session.

Speakers at the luncheon session at which the Rev. George Brewer, Piqua, will preside, are the Rev. Frank A. Gageby, Decatur, Ill., executive secretary of the Illinois Synod; and the Rev. Philip F. Payne, San Francisco, executive secretary of the California Synod.

A conference on "The Evangelistic Approach" led by Dr. Klein will open the afternoon session and will be followed by a devotional service and the Lord's Supper. The Rev. Mr. Tilford is a member of the Presbytery's special committee on evangelism which is planning the conference. Delegates from the session of the local Presbyterian Church will be named to the meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Weber, who recently published a book on the "every member canvass", will conduct a conference at the Dayton church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and one or possibly two delegates from Xenia will attend. He will also conduct a similar conference Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church, Middletown.

Defends Hawaiians

Asserting that "the old-type Hawaiians are a grand people" and that it is the lower class, produced by intermarriage, that causes trouble," Miss Helen Judd, daughter of Governor Judd of Hawaii, now a student at Mills College, Oakland, Cal., stoutly defends the natives of the "Island Paradise." Commenting on the Massie case, Miss Judd said she had lived in the islands all her life and has never had cause for fear. Her great-great-grandfather was one of the first Hawaiian missionaries and the family has lived there ever since.

COUNTY FARM LOAN HAS $91,400 OUT

The Greene County National Farm Loan Association with headquarters at Osborn has long-term, first farm mortgage loans outstanding, amounting to $91,400, according to figures made available by the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Ky. These loans are held by twenty-four farmers.

The money was brought into the county, the Louisville bank reports by this association endorsing its members' notes and putting up first mortgages on the farms with the Federal Land Bank. The farmers have cooperative loans which run for long periods and which are paid back over a series of years by including in the semi-annual installments the interest plus one per cent of the original loan. This method of adapting credit to the farmers' ability to pay was devised by congress in 1916.

WHEN LOVE COMES

"There are no homely women; there are only women who do not know how to be beautiful"

—A Famous French Adage

LOVE is all" sings the poet. "Health before all" says the physician. Both are right. But before love achieves its greatest joys, health must lead the way.

In the charm of a beautiful woman in evening gown, street dress or bathing suit, in the smart alertness of the efficient stenographer or clerk, in the attractive vigor of well developed girls in shop or factory, in the brisk movements of mother or housewife is the secret—the true life story—of one who has life's greatest possession—Good Health! Yes, "when love comes," be prepared for it with a vibrant personality—the reflection of perfect health.

Do you feel 100% right now? Do you glow with that inner good health that is admired by all? Are you going through life with a smile, self-reliant and fearless? These are important questions, please don't dodge them. Be honest about the most precious things you possess—your health. If you are weak, tired and peopled and your legs ache, or if you are troubled with headaches, gas, indigestion, bad breath or constipation; if you are nearly "frantic" with shattered nerves then you need Vitalex the tonic through which a million people have found the path to perfect health.

Vitalex is really more than a tonic. It contains the body building and protective vitamins A, B & D. Your physician will tell you that you cannot hope to build up and maintain your health without vitamins; Vitaminized Vitalex will enable you to build up your health, vigor and beauty so that you will feel, act and look like a new person—attractive to the one.

The healing, the weak, the convalescent, the run-down and dependent, those who hear inside whispers "you are slipping," weakened men, tired women, puny children—everybody may take advantage of the Vitalex 7-Day Wonder Test.

Thousands have reported such wonderful results from Vitalex that common sense directs us to sell it under an absolutely money-back guarantee. Try it for seven days and if you do not feel better, eat better, look better and sleep

full refund of your money. What could be fairer? What could be more in your favor? Start taking Vitalex Tonic Tablets or Vitalex Tonic Liquid today. Next week you will thank us.

XENIA PASTOR WILL REPORT AT MEETING IN DAYTON MONDAY

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, will give a statistical report showing membership gains and losses for churches of the Dayton Presbytery for the past eleven years when the Presbytery meets at Westminster Presbyterian Church, Dayton, Monday. The meeting will be in the form of a conference on national missions with special reference to evangelism, a devotional retreat and the Lord's Supper for the ministers and elders of the Presbytery.

The Rev. Mr. Tilford's report will be in connection with an address, "Concerning Those Suspended Members" by the Rev. William F. Klien, D. D., New York secretary of evangelism. Another speaker scheduled on the morning program, which opens at 10 o'clock, is the Rev. Herman C. Weber D. D., New York general director of the "every member canvass". The Rev. Hugh L. Evans, pastor of Westminster Church, will preside at the morning session.

Speakers at the luncheon session at which the Rev. George Brewer, Piqua, will preside, are the Rev. Frank A. Gageby, Decatur, Ill., executive secretary of the Illinois Synod; and the Rev. Philip F. Payne, San Francisco, executive secretary of the California Synod.

A conference on "The Evangelistic Approach" led by Dr. Klein will open the afternoon session and will be followed by a devotional service and the Lord's Supper. The Rev. Mr. Tilford is a member of the Presbytery's special committee on evangelism which is planning the conference. Delegates from the session of the local Presbyterian Church will be seated at the meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Weber, who recently published a book on the "every member canvass", will conduct a conference at the Dayton church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock and one or possibly two delegates from Xenia will attend. He will also conduct a similar conference Sunday evening at the First Presbyterian Church, Middletown.

Defends Hawaiians

Asserting that "the old-type Hawaiians are a grand people" and "that it is the lower class, produced by intermarriage, that causes trouble," Miss Helen Judd, daughter of Governor Judd of Hawaii, now a student at Mills College, Oakland, Cal., stoutly defends the natives of the "Island Paradise." Commenting on the Massie case, Miss Judd said she had lived in the islands all her life and had never had cause for fear. Her great-great-grandfather was one of the first Hawaiian missionaries and the family has lived there ever since.

COUNTY FARM LOAN HAS $91,400 OUT

The Greene County National Farm Loan Association with headquarters at Osborn has long-term, first farm mortgage loans outstanding, amounting to $91,400, according to figures made available by the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Ky. These loans are held by twenty-four farmers.

The money was brought into the county, the Louisville bank reports by this association endorsing its members' notes and putting up first mortgages on the farms with the Federal Land Bank. The farmers have cooperative loans which run for long periods and which are paid back over a series of years by including in the semi-annual installments the interest plus one per cent of the original loan. This method of adapting credit to the farmers' ability to pay was devised by congress in 1916.

DECEMBER SAFETY RECORD WAS BEST

Greene County's industrial accident record for December was twenty-three claims filed, none of which represented fatalities or permanent partial disabilities, the Division of Safety and Hygiene of the Ohio Industrial Commission reports.

Seven mishaps caused more than seven days lost time, two caused seven days or less, and fourteen were medical cases involving no time loss. The time loss for the county for the entire month was 799 days.

The lowest monthly fatality rate in Ohio industry since April, 1928, was recorded in December, the state commission announced. The record for the month was sixty-four deaths and 13,265 non-fatal accidents, with a time loss of 530,224 days, announced as the best safety record for any month of last year.

"Well, no use to try to find him. His whereabouts are strictly his own affair until he chooses to appear. That may be at any moment. But we should like to have you come out, anyway. May I drive for you tonight? Or better, let me send Kerry Welland for you. He would be delighted to come for you."

Marcia demurred.

"Just an informal little party, and it's so warm in the city," Jean insisted, "or have you another engagement?"

"Oh, no."

"Well, that settles it! You are coming out, and I'll send Kerry for you just as soon as he arrives. Can you stay where he is?"

"I'll come, but please don't trouble me. I can get a cab."

"Trouble, for Kerry? Why? he's quite mad about you, Marcia. He will bless me for the chance. Is it settled?" she laughed.

Marcia consented reluctantly, and hung up the receiver. It was disappointing enough not to have heard Turner's voice over the wire, but it was worse to have Kerry Welland calling for her. Her lips smiled a little ironically over the situation. Here was one of the wealthiest and most prominent young men in the country calling for her in a snappy motor car, to take her to another magnificent estate for a dinner party, and she didn't want to go. As Mamie Duton in Mitchfield would have said, "Snappy clothes, snappy car, snappy fella!" and she'd rather suffer through the evening in a stuffy hotel room alone. Is she cuckoo?" Perhaps any of the girls in Mitchfield would have voiced the same alarm. And six months ago, she might have, too. But there had been many changes in six months.

She put on one of the older evening dresses, without enthusiasm. She had no particular desire to be attractive to Kerry. He called her from downstairs in an incredibly short time, and his voice was jubilant, as if she had sent for him, herself; and he had lost no time in answering her summons.

His manner was extravagant when he greeted her. It held none of the quiet adoration that Turner's greetings had.

"Did you come in an airplane?" Marcia inquired.

"No, did you want me to? Why didn't you say so?"

CHURCHES IN XENIA WILL PARTICIPATE IN CRUSADE SUNDAY

The inaugural service in the Tabernacle, E. Third St., Sunday evening will be participated in by all the churches of Xenia with their pastors, it was announced Friday.

Dr. H. B. McElree, president of the Xenia Ministerial Association, will speak and Dr. B. R. McClellan, H. E. Eavey and W. L. Miller, members of the Laymen's committee, will take part. The Rev. E. A. Rager, of Trinity M. E. Church, will tell of a revival in Nashville, Tenn., and the Rev. Ralph E. Stewart, who is directing the campaign here, will explain details for the "Crusade for Christ" here.

The Rev. Mr. Stewart has been closely connected with laymen's work for several years and recently conducted a five months' city-wide tent campaign in Atlanta, Ga., with more than 125,000 persons attending. The Rev. Mr. Stewart is known as the "WSB Radio Preacher."

The evangelistic party will begin its services Monday evening and will continue daily with the Rev. Mr. Stewart preaching. Homer Hammontree leading the singing and Paul Beckwith, pianist. Another feature of the campaign which will continue for at least three weeks will be children's meetings on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 4 p.m. at the Tabernacle. Mr. Hammontree, the Rev. W. H. Tifford and the Rev. Mr. Stewart will take part in these services. Boys and girls up to 16 years of age are invited.

Cottage prayer meetings will be held four mornings a week in various homes of the city starting Tuesday. Locations of the meetings will be announced in the Gazette and each home will be marked with a "prayer card."

The entire campaign is to be inter-denominational and while it is under the auspices of the Laymen's Evangelistic Association yet all churches and pastors are cooperating insofar as it is possible, it is announced.

HEALTH ROUND-UPS ARE NOW PLANNED

The state division of child hygiene is arranging its schedule for pre-school round-ups and children's conferences according to information received by Dr. R. H. Grube, health commissioner of Greene County. Mother's Clubs and Parent-Teacher Associations considering the round-up program are asked to register with the local health department and by request of the local health commissioner, either city or county, a representative from the division of nursing will come here and outline the entire procedure and assist in obtaining either local or state medical assistance.

The purpose of the round-ups is entirely educational with the exception that they shall be conducted in such a manner that the entire community shall benefit, be stimulated and encouraged in the matter of giving each child, through periodic physical examination, the opportunity of beginning and continuing its school life as free from physical and mental defects as possible.

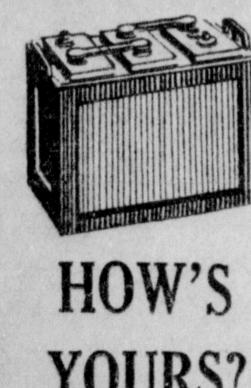

All requests for these conferences must come through the city or county health department with the approval of the Greene County Medical Society, it is pointed out.

Watch FAT After 30

Excess fat comes to many after 30. People gain weight and slow down. Medical science has found a great reason—lack of a certain gland secretion. Now doctors the world over supply that lacking factor. Thus excess fat, in late years, has been disappearing fast.

That factor is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. For 24 years, Marmola has brought to multitudes this right reduction method at small cost. Millions of boxes have been used, and users have told others. Now you see in every circle the new beauty, youth and vim which Marmola brings to people.

Stop starvation methods. Stop all methods out-of-date. Ask your druggist for Marmola. Do what modern doctors do. You will be delighted.

BUCKEYE MOTORIST OFFERS TO HELP DIXIE HIGHWAY CHANGE

An offer to sponsor a mass meeting of citizens of Findlay, Dunkirk, Kenton, Bellefontaine, West Liberty, Urbana, Yellow Springs, Xenia, Waynesville, Lebanon, Sharpsburg, and all way points, for the purpose of banding together an organization, the ultimate purpose of which is to have this route designated as US 25 East, Dixie Highway, is contained in the January issue of the "Buckeye Motorist," official organ of the Springfield and Champaign County auto clubs.

Reviving a movement that flared a few months ago when the suggestion that the pike be split into East and West divisions, the "Motorist" offers to champion the project.

The proposed route, diverting a large percentage of tourist travel, is considered the shortest between Toledo and Cincinnati. It now has four route numbers, 25, 31, 53 and 42, which is viewed as discouraging to cross state motorists. Other cross state routes carry one route number for the entire distance.

This route, it is pointed out, is of particular historical interest and the markers of the Ohio Revolutionary Memorial Trails Association will be found all the way from Cincinnati to Toledo.

The proposal met a recent setback when the executive committee of the American Association of State Highway Officials, composed of the highway directors of each state, went on record declaring its opposition to the policy of designating parts of federal highways as E for East; W for West; N for North and S for South. This is the one national organization with the power to make changes in the federal highway system.

The executive committee's action, declaring also its opinion the system of federal highways has reached its limit and further expansion would tend to complicate efficient control, is in no way directly aimed at the Dixie Highway, it is said. The association's decisions are applicable to all states.

"Regardless of the attitude of the executive committee, residents of the proposed route, interested, should not be content to accept these decisions as final," the "Motorist" asserts editorially. "They are not decrees of law and no doubt the opposition expressed can be broken down if the proper methods are pursued."

The editorial adds that an organization will promptly start the needed bowel action, clear waste and poison from your system, and bring welcome relief at once. The mild, safe, all-vegetable laxative. Try it—25¢.
